About This Collection

The gallery opens on a quantitative trading set where algorithms drive markets across glowing screens. Katz and McCormick sit near the QuantPedia encyclopedia, while complexity and uncertainty build around machine learning, deep learning, and reinforcement learning forecasts. Portfolios spread across the table as the models trade glances and pose through the final frames. A conference room holds the Alpaca panel, then shifts to a private session on discretionary and algorithmic strategies. View the full gallery via the link above.
